

Unsure what to do with API? Let's try an analogy...

Building something with our API is like a carpenter building you a table. Stay with us. This will make sense...

First of all, we'll give you our API documentation. This would be the equivalent of you being handed all the tools you need to put your table together.

Now you'll need a programmer who has experience with APIs who can take our documentation and make something awesome. Just like giving a carpenter tools to put your table together.

Then it's up to the skills of your carpenter to put the two together. It can be finished in hours, but it can also take days. It depends what you want to make. It's different for everyone!

And that's it!
